SUMMARY

25X1D

A medium-sized barracks installation with a small-unit training area is located on the northeast edge of Perechin (Figure 1). Rail service is provided by a spur which branches from the Uzhgorod-Turka rail line and terminates at the east corner of the training area. All-weather, hard-surface roads provide access to Perechin, Uzhgorod, and Turka.

The installation (Figures 2 and 3) covers 475 acres and contains at least 118 buildings including 7 administration buildings, 19 barracks, 17 multiple-unit family quarters, 37 single-unit family quarters, 4 general storage warehouses, 6 (including 4 in revetments) explosives storage buildings, 5 vehicle sheds, 2 vehicle repair shops, and 21 small single-story support buildings.

Facilities include a 400-acre training area, a vehicle park, an athletic field, and a large unidentified facility.

The installation was covered by interpretable KEYHOLE missions in [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] There appears to have been an increase in activity between the missions, indicating that summer training activities were being conducted. The installation is well-suited for the training of security troops and for summer training of reserve militia.
